MANAGER COMMENTARY

February proved to be a mixed bag for the markets. In general, there were gains in equities while the bond markets suffered losses. Bond yields in developed markets increased, and hopes of early interest rate cuts were dashed. In the United States, the index of the top 500 companies rose by a healthy 5.17%<sup>2</sup>, but this was dwarfed by the Shanghai Composite index increase of 8.12%<sup>2</sup>. The Japanese Topix didn't do too badly either, with an increase of just under 5%<sup>2</sup>. In contrast, the UK top 100 stock index barely changed, while the all-stocks index was down by 0.24%<sup>2</sup>.

In the bond markets, the yields of 10-year US Treasuries and UK Gilts increased by 7.24%<sup>2</sup> and 8.56%<sup>2</sup>, respectively. The DXY (US Dollar Index) was marginally stronger, ending the month at 104.16<sup>2</sup>, up by 0.86%<sup>2</sup>.

February was a positive month for the fund, with a return of 0.23%<sup>3</sup>. This was marginally less than the benchmark return of 0.60%<sup>3</sup>. At asset allocation level, the global macro sector was the best-performing asset class with a positive return of 0.50%<sup>3</sup>, followed by a return for fixed income of 0.40%<sup>3</sup>. Real asset returns were the only detractors from performance with a return of minus 0.15%<sup>3</sup>. Trading in the fund was limited to one trade, with a further 2% reduction of the Clearbridge Global Infrastructure Fund. The proceeds were used to top up the Artemis Absolute Return Bond Fund. Looking forward, the prospects of a change in the direction of interest rates will continue to play a pivotal role in the prospects for this fund.
