

MANAGER COMMENTARY

February saw the continuation of market volatility with geopolitical uncertainty front and centre of investors' minds. The worst-case scenario for geopolitical tensions has come to fruition as Russian military personnel have crossed Ukraine's sovereign borders. The human cost is horrific, and this comes above any comments we could make regarding the financial and investment implications.

Historically, war has the most severe economic consequences for nations directly involved but often negatively affects global markets. The most frequently occurring trend is that market downturns are significant but short-lived and it is not unusual for market indices to have fully recovered within 12-18 months of the initial outbreak of a conflict. Whilst this might suggest that markets move with a degree of predictability, we maintain that time in the market is more effective than timing the market.

In February, the Fund outperformed on a relative basis, with a negative return of 3.70% versus minus 4.68% for its benchmark, IA's UK All Companies sector. The fund's exposure to large Cap/Income oriented assets proved to be more resilient and outperformed the mid and small-cap funds. Going forward, a technical rebound from the current oversold positions for these types of stocks cannot be ruled out.
